Kerin McBride, Judge combines vibrant colors with palpable textures to create evocative paintings that draw the viewer in with their approachable subject matter. Using a variety of mediums and concentrating primarily on landscapes, abstract works and the still life; McBride crafts her emotionally rich paintings by abstracting subjects to their basic forms and rendering them in brilliant, unnatural colors, encouraging viewers to look at the world around them in new ways.

Whether representational or non-objective, McBride's compositions speak of happiness, vitality and whimsy. A strong believer in the uplifting power of art, the artist strives to imbue her paintings with the recognition of nature's solitude, mystery and community. By combining a sense of tranquility and calm with bold color, McBride strives to leave the viewer hopeful and optimistic.

Although the artist considers herself a life-long student, Kerin McBride holds a BFA from Mary Baldwin College in Staunton, VA; a Certificate in Drawing and Painting from the Corcoran School of Art in Washington, DC; and is currently pursuing a graduate degree in art at Virginia Commonwealth University.
